

Geography & Maps	Latitude & Longitude	Timelines & History	Migration	Native Cultures	Explorers
A symbol on a map used to indicate the cardinal and intermediate directions Compass Rose	The four quadrants of the globe used to discuss location Hemisphere	The name we give to the period of time before a culture develops writing Pre History	Pressures that cause people to leave one area or settle in another Push- Pull Factors	The peoples of the East, who had complex government systems and laws. The Iroquois/ Cherokee	An Italian explorer who sailed for England and was the first to map the north east coast of North America John Cabot
The portion of a map that shows the relationship in size between things in real life and things on the map. Scale	the zero line of latitude, running like a belt around the globe Equator	The name we give to a culture that has developed agriculture, religion and government Civilization	Migrating to an already settled area for the purpose of gaining control of land, resources, and people. Colonization	The earliest Central American Civilization, they are famous for creating an accurate calendar, huge temples, and a number system The Maya	An Italian explorer who became the first to prove that the Americas (named after him) were not part of Asia. Amerigo Vespucci
The two oceans that border the United States mainland. The Atlantic and Pacific Oceans	The zero line of longitude, running between the north and south poles Prime Meridian	This is what the acronym used for dates after the year zero really stands for. (2 correct answers) Anno Domini and Common Era	The “Three Gs”, the main push-pull factors that brought Europeans to the Americas. God, Gold, Glory	The people of the north, they are famous for their dog sleds, seal skin boats and clothing, and ice homes The Inuit	An Italian who made several trips to the Americas for Spain, spreading disease and capturing land & people Christopher Columbus
The only continent that has not really settled by humans. Antarctica	The vertical lines running from pole to pole, these are used to measure East and West and to set time zones. Lines of Longitude	This is what the acronym used for dates before the year zero really stands for. (2 correct answers) Before Christ Before the Common Era	List pull factors of most Native civilizations before European contact. (list any 2 true for more than one society) resource, tech, gov/ religion etc	A very early people of the midwest US that built huge structures and lived in the city of Cahokia in modern Illinois The Mound Builders	A Portuguese captain who sailed for Spain, his crew circumnavigated the world although he was killed in the Philippines Ferdinand Magellan
Two of the 5 themes of geography, which together might explain how climate influences culture. Human and Environmental Interaction	A system of lines of latitude and longitude used to pinpoint any place on the map. Global Grid	(daily double) List the three rules for creating timelines. 1 Use equal space between years 2 if you must break a rule, break the timeline 3 mark years in logical intervals	A push factor that drove Native American peoples inland, destroyed their culture and civilizations, and even caused up to 90% of their population to die Europeans, disease	The latest South American Civilization, they are famous for their advanced government, road network, and unique record keeping system involving knots. The Inca	A Spanish Conquistador who in the 1530s conquered the Inca empire and killed the emperor and his brother. Francisco Pizarro

